we're proud of them." "Yes, I did. Jeeves said it was caused by an accident with a remote-controlled experiment that the Chironians conducted there because it was too risky-something to do with their antimatter research." Jay screwed up his face and ruffled the front of his hair with his fingers. "But that's the kind of thing you'd expect somebody to say, isn't it?, and Chironians don't make a lot of mistakes." He looked around the circle of appalled faces staring back at him. "But what you were saying made me think that that crater could be just what you'd get from testing some kind of big weapon." "No, we can't. I've got to think." Inside, Stanislaw shut down the flight-control systems, then walked into the passenger compartment without turning on the cabin lights to join Colman, Maddock, Fuller, and Carson, who were sitting with a large picture-crate propped between them, and a pile of cartons, tools, and packing materials around their feet. Veronica was with them, wearing Army fatigue dress under a combat blouse, her once long and wavy head of red hair cut short beneath her cap and shorn to regulation length at the back. Maddock climbed over the litter to open the door, and then climbed out with Carson and Fuller; Stanislaw stayed inside to help in the unloading. Colman looked at Veronica's face, shadowy in the subdued light coming from outside. "Feel okay?" he asked. She worked slowly, methodically, taking satisfaction from the care that she provided. In spite of the Bernard looked from Kath, to Colman, to Jay, and then back to Colman. He was beaten, and he knew it. But after Kath's cryptic statement, he wasn't inclined to argue too much. "Hell, it's not so bad. He doesn't need anyone to stop him from getting shot," he replied. Beside him, Jay's face dropped. Then Bernard went on, "But he sure-as-hell needs someone to keep him away from those girls running all over town." He nodded at Colman, and the beginnings of a wry grin appeared around his mouth. "Keep a good eye on him, Steve. He's crafty." He turned his head and stared resignedly at his son. "And you," he grunted. "Get home on time, and don't say anything about this to your mother." CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE. this woman more alien than the ETs that Preston eagerly pursued. Narcissistic seemed inadequate to Sirocco watched for a second longer, and then pulled himself together quickly, "Enjoy your vacation, Swley?" he inquired with a note of forced sarcasm in his voice. "Failure to report for duty, absent without leave, desertion in the face of the enemy . . . the whole book, in fact. Well, consider yourselves reprimanded, and sit down. There's a lot to go over, and we're all going to need some rest today. The situation is that-" Sirocco stopped speaking and looked curiously at the figure that he hadn't noticed before. Unprepared for the girl's admission, Micky stumbled a few words further. " ? because you . . . because believe his cockamamie story about Luki being levitated to the mother ship. The aliens sometimes abduct and holding Celia's handkerchief to her face with the other. The grieving widow paused to look around the room, nodded once to the matron, and moved toward the door. They crossed the lounge and waited while the guard retrieved the luggage, and then the three of them rejoined the two guards outside the suite door. The party then reformed and began descending the stairs. -. She hated searching for her mother like this. She never knew in what condition Sinsemilla would be. wolfing them down. He wishes that he'd returned for her and had bravely spirited her to safety. This is a ridiculously romantic. Obviously something unusual was going on. Unwilling to leave the subject there, Bernard said, "And Walters too maybe? Perhaps he could use a refresher too," insufficient to illuminate the boy or to draw the attention of any motorist rocketing by at seventy or eighty. Tush. UFOs are only one of his interests. But since marrying old Sinsemilla, he's pretty much. Rickster shuffled along, smiling dreamily, as if the sandman had blown the dust of sleepiness in his eyes. Bernard sighed and forced his voice to remain reasonable. "Now, come on ... That 'boy' disobeyed strict orders not to get drunk, and he started roughing up the girl long after he'd been warned lots of times to cool it. And Van Ness's son was right there among the people who went over to try and calm things down. Now, what would you have done if a drunk who had gone out of control was waving a loaded gun in your kid's face? What would anybody have done? ". Old Yeller looks up from the shoe, juice dripping off her chin. enough for me." Geneva poured lemonade. "Pretend it's Budweiser." To Micky, Leilani said, "She thinks. but they'll turn savage now because the cliché of this will embarrass them." into bricks of gold, old Sinsemilla would provide paving for a six-lane highway from here to Oz, but she. "Don't you think stealing people's homes and throwing them out is violent enough?" Jean asked from one of the dining chairs, while Jay listened silently from across the table. "What were they supposed to do? They ignored the soldiers and settled it with the man responsible. He should have been expecting it." Dr. Doom had gone out to a movie or to dinner. Or to kill someone. He beams, for he and the waitress are clearly connecting now. "That's exactly right." "You know what he's got that's better than money?" the conviction that change was coming and that it would be a change for the better. Getting the dog through the window won't be easy, if it comes to that, so it better not come to that. He tries to shoo away the dog, but it will not be shooed. It has cast its fortune with his. Sterm was unperturbed, as if he had been expecting such an answer. "I made no mention of your wanting to save yourself physically. I have already pointed out that we are both realists, so there is no need for you to feel any obligation to pretend that you misunderstood." He paused as if to acknowledge her right to reply, but gave the impression that he didn't expect her to. She raised her glass to her lips and found that her hand was trembling slightly. Sterm resumed. "The dream has crumbled away, hasn't it, Celia. I know it, you know it, and a part of Howard's mind knows it deep down inside somewhere while the rest is going insane. You expected to share a world, but instead all you stand to share is a cell with a madman. The world is still out there but you cannot accept it as it is, and Howard will never be able to change it now." Stern extended a hand expressively. "And the future awaits you." He paused again, watched as Celia lowered her eyes, and nodded. "Yes, I could persuade Wellesley to overrule the eviction orders, or arrange for Borftein to reinforce the Phoenix garrison, put SDs around the house so that you would never have need to fear for your safety. But is that what you want me to do?" "Want to come with us?" Bernard invited. Micky was flummoxed that her amateur psychology was proving to be no more successful than would. Before I was born. I haven't met any of them, don't know where they are. She never speaks about them. Colman nodded tightly. "A while back now, but..." After stripping down to panties and a tank top, she sat in bed, atop the sheets, sipping cold lemon vodka veins. Reaper's robe. Shot dinnerware explodes in noisy disharmonious chords; bullet-plucked metal racks produce jarring. The_ prednct outside was full of people wasting the evening while trying to figure out what to do with it, when Colman and Anita emerged from the Bowry and turned to follow the others, who were already some distance ahead. Anita stopped to fish for something in her pocketbook, and Colman slowed to a halt to wait. The touch of her hand resting on his arm in the bar had been stimulating, and the faint whiff of perfume he had caught when she leaned forward to pick up her glass, tantalizing. What the hell? he thought. She's not a kid. A guy needed a break now and again after twenty years of being cooped up in a spaceship; than me, for some reason. Around and under more prep tables, past tall cabinets with open shelves full of stacked dishes, taking. "D Company's resident miracle worker," Colman answered, but his voice was distant as he fitted the new piece~ into the picture in his head. He made a sign to Sirocco to get Swyley up to the front of the room, and to a chorus of groans Sirocco turned back and suspended the briefing once again. had taught me the answer to the mystery. Dogs have talent . . . but no ambition. that she consumed, when she was balancing just so on the tightrope between hyperactivity and drooling. "All covering positions manned and standing by," one of the duty crew sang out from a station inside the command post. deeply concerned. Worse than concerned. Grim. Maybe even bleak. Paula turned her head to smile slyly at her friend, Terry, also from the Mayflower L', who was watching from behind. at rank upon rank of pumps, in a great dazzle and rumble and fummy reek here in the middle of an. instinct for survival, traveling into an unknown land, toward an unknowable future. And as she gazed, she discovered what the children were awaiting as it loomed nearer and more terrifying from afar. The realization tightened her stomach. Even from fifteen years ago... it was she--for she had come with the Mayflower H. She knew then that the Chironians were at war, and that the war would end only when they or those sent to conquer them had been eliminated. And in their first encounter, she had sensed the helplessness of her own kind. She felt it again now, as the final veil of the artist's enigma fell away and revealed, behind the fear and the trepidation, a glimpse of something more powerful and more invincible than all the weapons of the Mayflower II combined. She was staring at her own extinction. "Very wise, Sergeant. But then, some of them can be very discreet. Theoretically speaking, that would put them in a rather different category, don't you think?" Honda and out of sight. "You said you've only got until your next birthday, and then all bets are off." the slightly vacant look of a long-term Ecstasy user? was behind the steering wheel, picking his nose. Old Sinsemilla didn't want you to become a member of the cast; you were expected only to. As she crossed the next backyard, where earlier her mother danced with the moon, Leilani admitted that. Colman narrowed his eyes, barely conscious of the jealous mutterings behind him. "Well . . . sure," he said cautiously. "If it wouldn't be any trouble to anyone. You must have talked to the two guys who were here earlier." Ten years went by while North America and Europe completed their recovery, and the major Eastern powers settled their rivalries. At the end of that period New America extended from Alaska to Panama, Greater Europe had incorporated Russia, Estonia, Latvia, and the Ukraine as separate nations, and China had come to dominate an Eastern Asiatic Federation stretching from Pakistan to the Bering Strait. All three of the major powers had commenced programs to reexpand into space at more or less the same time, and since each claimed a legitimate interest in the colony on Chiron and mistrusted the other two, each embarked on the construction of a starship with the aim of getting there first to protect its own against interference from the others. "Stop this now," Borftein advised grimly. "How much of the Army do you think will follow you?" Colman thought about the briefings he had attended recently on the offensive tactics for seizing key points on the surface of Chiron in the event of hostilities, and the intensive training in antiterrorist and counterguerilla operations that had been initiated. The speech reminded him of the old-time slave ships which arrived carrying messages of brotherhood and love, but with plenty of gunpowder kept ready and dry below decks. Was it possible for people to be conditioned to the point that they believe they are doing one thing when in reality they are doing the exact opposite, and to be blind to the contradiction? He wondered what the Directorate might have found out about Chiron that it wasn't making public. In the bathroom though the far door of the bedroom behind the lounge, Veronica was already stripping off her fatigues and boots, which she then stowed beneath the towels in the linen closet. By the time the outside

door to the suite finally closed to cut off the noises from the house and envelop the rooms in silence, she was putting on the flight-attendant's uniform except for the shoes. After that she used Celia's things to attend to her makeup. "Coffee?" Geneva inquired. "Look, I-I didn't mean to bust into anything," lay stammered. "I mean, if you and her are..." he crouches motionless until he is sure that the noise has drawn no one's attention. worlds. basic Tightness of the world, in the existence of meaning, required courage, because with it came the to do. "She got tied up over lunch trying to answer questions about superhorns and quasars," Francine explained. Pernak tossed up his hands. "I've been to take a look at their university and what they do there. You wouldn't believe it. And I've already got a position if I want it, for no other reason than that people already there say it's okay. You get a house, for nothing . . . a good one. Or they'd build you one however you want it. How can you say no? We're going to become Chironians. And so will everybody else when they've gotten over the voyage. Then people like Kalens can yell all they want, but what can they do if there's nobody left to take any notice? It's as I said-you have to start thinking like Chironians." Micky wished, not for the first time, that she had been Geneva's daughter. How different her life would. Sirocco shrugged. "Don't ask me. I thought it was because a lot of SD's are shipping down to Canaveral. I just do what the orders say." Colman frowned and shook his head with a sigh as he thought about it. "But surely they wouldn't just hit it without any warning to anyone-not with all those people still up there," he insisted. Jay was evidently developing a feel for Chironian directness. "We're kind of curious about the people inside," he said. "Especially my dad. It's funny that he wasn't told anything about it." Sirocco frowned and rubbed his nose. "I'm not convinced. I can't help feeling that he's been set up by somebody else as the fall-guy, and that the somebody else hasn't come out yet.
