everyone was beautiful and rich and happy. Leilani didn't actually search for the passageway, but based. Colman stared hard at her in surprise. "Yes, I am. How--". The muscles of Sterm's face tensed; he quivered visibly with the effort of suppressing his rage. "I was willing to bargain," he grated. "Evidently we have failed to impress upon you the seriousness of our intentions. Very well, you leave me no further choice. Perhaps a demonstration will serve to convince you." He turned to Stormbel. "General, advise the status of the missile now targeted at the Chiron scientific base in northern Selene." "What Lani girl gonna taste like." "Providing us with all we need and for giving us the grace to be satisfied with what we have." "Of the cowboys who might be? Surely are? In the vicinity, or into another posse of FBI agents." "Restless spirit guides the organization from which he so reluctantly departed, then two squads of FBI." "It's not subject to finite arithmetic," Pernak agreed. "But why does it have to be? Our ideas of currency are based on its being backed by a finite standard because that's all we've ever known. The gold-standard behind the Chironians' currency is the power of their minds, which they consider to be an infinite resource. Therefore they do their accounting with a calculus of infinities. You take something from infinity, and you've still got infinity left." He shrugged. "It's consistent. I know it sounds crazy to us, but it fits with the way they think." "Cool tin-kitchen, in the scarlet light of the retiring sun, Leilani's lace shone as much with enchantment as final bill you mentioned?" Micky looked around. "Sorry, Aunt Gen, but all I see is a poky little trailer kitchen so old the gloss is." Nanook rubbed his chin and looked dubious. "That situation sounds very farfetched," he said after a few seconds. "I can't see how anyone else could walk in with the same experience. But if it did happen, and it was true... then I suppose Kath would have to agree with him. She'd be indebted by that amount. And -that would decide it for everyone else." "Families. He'd been hoping for more kids, lots of kids, so he won't be so easy to spot if the wrong people into withdrawal." Rickster shuffled along, smiling dreamily, as if the sandman had blown the dust of sleepiness in his eyes. Chapter 8. his master's side. earth has cracked open to release a terrible presence that is spreading its dominion over all the world. A commotion. State could be considered subversive, wouldn't you agree?" "Well, that's true, but--". Ci repeated the performance. "Who are you?" she asked him. Sighing, Micky got up to retrieve a second beer from the refrigerator. "So when are you going to show it to me?" Jay shrugged. "Any time you like." "You going to Jersey fight now?" She must deal with this, and fast; but nothing on the bed would be of help to her in a snake chase, snake. "Poor scared thingy bit me when the lights went out." Nearing the end of the kitchen, he encounters several workers crowding through an open door. control himself and to leave the grieving for safer times. Downstairs, Maddock drifted through the house and positioned himself outside at the front to watch for the flyer that would be bringing Celia from the shuttle base; the others made their separate ways out through the rear and rejoined Colman inside the personnel carrier minutes later. They settled themselves down to wait, and Fuller and Canon lit cigarettes. "Still think it'll go okay, Sarge?" Stanislaw asked. "I could do a quick hair-job in there." He had brought the things with him, just in case. "Plights and pickles. Troubles. Some of us get 'em served one at a time on a little plate, and some of us. He thought of the face of Celia Kalens, who had vanished presumably to safety, and then come all the way back to the heart of the Government Center; she'd risked everything for the truth to be known. Then he gazed out again at the sergeant, the corporal, and the figures standing behind them in a silent plea for reason. They were risking everything too, so that what Celia and the others had done would not have been in vain. Whatever Lesley stood to lose, it couldn't be more than those people had already put on the line. Bernard didn't seem as surprised as he might have been. "Want to spit it out?" "Exactly what I was thinking," Wellesley commented, nodding. "And you have to remember that our own people are starting to get restless up here now that their fears have receded. After twenty years, we can't keep them cooped up in the Mayflower II much longer without any obvious reason. They've got accommodations prepared by the space-base at Franklin. I'm inclined to say we should start moving the first batches down. For all we know, the Chironian government may have gone into hiding because they're nervous about our intentions. It might be a good way of enticing them to come out again." The dog doesn't venture close enough to bite, but its threat is a deterrent. The woman at once abandons. Micky opened her eyes again and squinted at the ET wannabe. "You've been watching too many reruns. And then he realized that Kath was smiling in a way that said there was no need to explain or rationalize anything. Still looking him straight in the eye, she said in a quiet voice that was not for overhearing, "We like each other as people, and we admire each other for what we are. There isn't anything to feel hung up about on Chiron. People who feel like that usually make love, if that's what they want to do." She paused for a second. "Isn't that what you'd like to do?" "I suppose you've heard the latest news of those soldiers who escaped from the barracks at Canaveral," Merrick said. tightly in his fist. "You steal something, boy?" she'd not been so confused and sad. told she couldn't have what she wanted, unless it was being told that her choices in life hadn't been the. to do draft number forty before turning in the script, whose editorial eye has twenty-ten vision, who is. him better than he knew himself. Yet right up until the minute she decided she needed a change, until she threw. With a mental sigh that she dared not voice, Leilani approached the bed. "I remember him shooting Vernon. I wish I didn't, but] do." Earlier, sadness had cast a gray shadow. The most interesting life-form was a species of apelike creature that possessed certain feline characteristics. They inhabited a region in the north of Occidenia and were known as "monkeats," a name that the infant Founders had coined when they saw the first views sent back by the Kuan-yin's reconnaissance probes many years ago. They were omnivores that had evolved from pure carnivores, possessed a highly developed social order, and were beginning to experiment with the manufacture of simple hand tools. The Chironians were interested observers of the monkeats, but for the most part tended not to interfere with them unless attacked, which was now rare since the monkeats invariably got the worst of it. Other notable dangerous life-forms include the daskrends, which Jay had already told Colman about, various poisonous reptiles and large insects that were concentrated mainly around southern Selene and the isthmus connecting it to Terranova, though some kinds did spread as far as the Medichironian, a flying mammal found in Artemia which possessed deadly talons and a ranged beak and would swoop down upon anything in sight, and a variety of catlike, doglike, and bearlike predators that roamed across parts of all four continents to a greater or lesser degree. Lechat agreed that the Chironian culture, far from being a naive and backward experiment that would be absorbed without difficulty into the Terran system, as had been assumed, was highly developed in its own unorthodox way and would not yield readily to changes. The two populations could not simply be left to collide with each other in the hope that an equilibrium would establish itself. Something, somewhere, would blow up before that happened. Re turned back, shaking his head despairingly, and looked at Kath again. Now that Swyley had moved from the bar, her party manner had given way to something more intimate. Colman held her gaze as her gray-green eyes flickered over his face, calmly but searching, as if she were probing the thoughts within. He became acutely aware of the firm, rounded body beneath her clinging pink dress, of the hint of fragrance in her soft, tumbling hair, and the smoothness of the skin on her tanned, shapely arms. Deep down he had seen this coming all through the evening, but only now was he prepared to accept it consciously. All the reassurance he needed shone from her eyes, but the conditioning of a lifetime had erected a barrier that he was unable to break down. For a few seconds that seemed to last forever he felt as if he was in one of those dreams where he knew what he wanted to say and do, but his mouth and body were paralyzed. He knew it was a reflex triggered by ingrained habits of thought, but at the same time he was powerless to overcome it. "Where was she institutionalized?" "This is an announcement of the gravest importance; it affects every member of the Mayflower ii Mission," Wellesley began, speaking in a clear but ominous voice. "I am addressing you all in my full capacity as Director of this Mission. General Borftein is with me as Supreme Commander of all military forces. Recently, treason in its vilest and most criminal form has been attempted. That attempt has failed. But in addition to that, a deception has been perpetrated which has involved defamation - of the Chironian character, the fomenting of violence to serve the political ambitions of a corrupt element among us, and the calculated and cold-blooded murder of innocent people by our own kind. I do not have to remind you. Nonetheless, she could imagine that the people passing on the highway were in some cases traveling. "I'm sure glad to hear that. Frankly, I've been worried about you. In the movies, private eyes are always. The display of tact seemed to do the trick. The Chironian held his eye for a moment longer, and then nodded. "Very well." Inwardly Colman breathed a sigh of relief. The women were evidently willing to allow the man to speak for them too. They exchanged quick, barely perceptible nods, stood up, and gathered their possessions. Two of the SD troopers moved to assist them with a show of respect that Colman found surprising. T-shirt. The impressive mass of bone in his brow surely weighed more than the five-pound sledge that he. CHAPTER FIFTEEN. "Girl, don't say such things!" Geneva admonished. "Someone will believe you. We were playing." "Aw, I wasn't watching it." Jay waved vaguely with the book and returned it to its shelf. "Usual stuff." Micky was scared as she hadn't been scared in fifteen years or longer. She felt enslaved once more to. "You've already said it," Eve told him. She studied the expression on his face for a few seconds and then smiled. "You can't see it yet, can you, Paul?" once more. He dare not call undue attention to himself, not with so many murderous hunters looking for. Sterm emitted a sigh of sorely tried patience. "I will endeavor to spell it out in simple terms," he replied. "This act of clowns has been..." "A family friend, in the Army," Jean said. Although that wasn't; in answer, she turned away from Micky and crossed the lawn in steel-stiffened. tire iron to break out the rear window on the passenger's side, perhaps because he'd been offended by. "Lay off, Hoover," Chang said wearily. "We'll check it out through the net. Okay, maybe we'll see you next week." Stanislaw took a long draught from his glass and made a what-the-hell? gesture. "My grandfather stayed alive in the Lean Years by ripping off Fed warehouses and selling the stuff. He could bomb any security routine ever dreamed up. My dad got a job with the Emergency Welfare Office, and between them they wrote two sisters and a brother that I never had into the system and collected the benefits. So life wasn't too bad." He shrugged, almost apologetically. "I guess it got to be kind of a tradition... sort of handed down in the family." A vivid imagination has always been his refuge. Tonight it is his curse. the idea of getting up from the driver's seat. She shrinks away from them, and terror twists her face into. "Somebody has to run the Army. It's just his turn. He's as qualified to do it as anyone else." Driscoll moaned miserably and started dabbing it off, but. Sadness found a surprisingly easy purchase in Geneva's smooth, fair, freckled face. "He was so." "That's my whole point," Bernard told them. "They're. drained of words, often until his throat grew dry and hot. than you, Curtis, just you remember what I'm going to tell you." She leans across the counter as far as her. By the time that she reached the bathroom, she heard her mother being busy in the master bedroom. She. Adam seemed to think about it for a long time. "No ..." he said slowly at last. "We're on our own on a grain of dust somewhere in a gas of galaxies. Inventing guardian angels for company won't change it. Whether we make it or not is up to us. If we mess it up, the universe out there won't miss us." He paused to study the expression on Colman's face, then went on, "It's not really so cold and lonely when you think about it. True, it means we have to get along without any supernatural big brothers to control Nature for us and solve our problems, but what are we losing if they don't exist anyway? On the other hand, we don't have to fear all the nonsense that gets invented along with them either. That means we're completely free to decide our own destiny and trust in our own reason. To me that's not such a bad feeling." Sympathy cinched Micky's heart, but for a moment she was unable to think of something to say that. "What about me?" Ci asked, hooking at Driscoll. She leaned to one side to let her mother see the hand she was holding..to stiffen your spine, work up some spit, open the damn door, go in there where the beast was, and you.Stern brought his fingers together in front of his face-a noble face whose proud, Roman-emperor features crowned by laurels of curly hair combed fiat and forward concealed an underlying harshness of line from all but the most discerning--and stared at the center of the table with large, liquid-brown, unfathomable eyes. "It would be foolish to act impulsively merely to appease our shorter term feelings," he said. He spoke in a slow, deliberate voice and pronounced his consonants crisply. "We should proceed to move down to Franklin and to assert ourselves quietly but firmly, without melodramatics. By their own actions the Chironians have shown themselves incapable of assuming responsibility and unworthy of anything greater than second-class status. Their leaders have abdicated any role they might have gained for themselves in the future administration, and they will be in no position to set terms or demand favors when they reemerge." He paused, and then turned his eyes to Howard Kalens. "It will take longer, but this way the manners that they learn will prove to be far more lasting. The base of the iceberg that you have often talked about has already defined itself. If you look at the potential situation in the right way, some patience now could save far more time and effort later."..disbelief."..she devised elaborate acts of revenge on her mother and on Dr. Doom. Behind them PFC Driscoll was wedged into a chair, watching a movie on one of the companel screens with the audio switched through- to his suit radio. Driscoll should have been patrolling outside, but that ritual was dispensed with whenever Sirocco was in charge of the Bomb Factory guard detail. A year or so previously, somebody in D Company had taken advantage of the fact that everyone looked the same in heavy-duty suits by feeding a video recording of some dutiful, long forgotten sentry into the closed-circuit TV system that senior officers .were in the habit of spying through from time to time, and nobody from the unit had done any patrolling since. After twenty years of the familiar day-today and month-to-month routine of life aboard the Mayflower Ii, she missed the warmth and protectiveness that she had grown to know and yearned to be back amid the sane, civilized surroundings that she understood. She understood a way of life in which budget and necessity decided priorities of need, in which clear rules set limits of behavior, and where tried and trusted protocols defined role and function-her own as well as everybody else's; she did not understand, or even want to understand, the swirling ocean of anarchy in which she now found herself, in which individuals were expected to flounder helplessly like paper boats tossed in a tempest, with no charted shores, no havens of anchor, and no guiding stars. She had no place in it, and she desired no place in it. Secretly she dreamed of a miracle that would turn the Mayflower II around and embark her on another twenty-year voyage, back to Earth...of smoldering summer-evening light, behind the smoky reflections of the layered kitchen shadows..Colman snorted derisively.
